security interest.

The House Committee of the Whole amended the bill to change the effective date from the date of publication in the Kansas Register to publication in the statute book.

The fiscal note on the original bill states the Department of Revenue estimated expenditures of $87,380 for programming changes and printing new temporary registration permits. Department officials discussed less-costly printing alternatives with the Senate Transportation Committee. A revenue increase proposed in the original bill is not present in the bill as amended. According to the Department of Revenue, changing the effective date to the date of publication in the statute book reduces the fiscal impact to $1,580, for programming.
