6 on, relates to or is in response to a party's exercise of the right of free
7 speech, right to petition or right of association. A party bringing the motion 8 to strike has the initial burden of making a prima facie case showing the 9 claim against which the motion is based concerns a party's exercise of the 10 right of free speech, right to petition or right of association. If the moving 11 party meets the burden, the burden shifts to the responding party to 12 establish a likelihood of prevailing on the claim by presenting substantial 13 competent evidence to support a prima facie case. If the responding party 14 meets the burden, the court shall deny the motion. In making its 15 determination, the court shall consider pleadings and supporting and 16 opposing affidavits stating the facts upon which the liability or defense is 17 based. If the court determines the responding party established a likelihood 18 of prevailing on the claim: (1) The fact that the court made that 19 determination and the substance of the determination may not be admitted 20 into evidence later in the case; and (2) the determination does not affect 21 the burden or standard of proof in the proceeding. The motion to strike 22 made under this subsection may be filed within 60 days of the service of 23 the most recent complaint or, in the court's discretion, at any later time 24 upon terms it deems proper. A hearing shall be held on the motion not 25 more than 30 days after the service of the motion.

26 (e) (1) On a motion by a party or on the court's own motion and on a 27 showing of good cause, the court may allow specified and limited 28 discovery relevant to the motion.

29 (2) Except as provided by subsection (e)(1), all discovery, motions or 30 other pending hearings shall be stayed upon the filing of the motion to 31 strike. The stay of discovery shall remain in effect until the entry of the 32 order ruling on the motion except that the court, on motion and for good 33 cause shown, may order that specified discovery, motions or other pending 34 hearings be conducted.

35 (f) The movant in a motion to strike has the right to: (1) Petition for a 36 writ of mandamus if the trial court fails to rule on the motion in an 37 expedited fashion; or (2) file an interlocutory appeal from a trial court 38 order denying the motion to strike, if notice of appeal is filed within 14
39 days after entry of such order. However, under subsections (f)(1) and (2), 40 further proceedings in the trial court shall be stayed pending determination 41 of the appeal.

42 (g) The court shall award the defending party, upon a determination 43 that the moving party has prevailed on its motion to strike, without regard

1 to any limits under state law: (1) Costs of litigation and reasonable 2 attorney fees; and (2) such additional relief, including sanctions upon the 3 responding party and its attorneys and law firms, as the court determines 4 necessary to deter repetition of the conduct by others similarly situated. If 5 the court finds that the motion to strike is frivolous or solely intended to 6 cause delay, the court shall award to the responding party reasonable 7 attorney fees and costs related to the motion.

8 (h) This section does not apply to:

9 (1) An enforcement action that is brought in the name of this state or 10 a political subdivision of this state by the attorney general or a district or 29 with the contractor.

30 (k) } The provisions of the public speech protection act shall be 31 applied and construed liberally to effectuate its general purposes. If any 32 provision of the public speech protection act or its application is held 33 invalid, the invalidity does not affect other provisions or applications that 34 can be given effect without the invalid provision or application.

35 Sec. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its 36 publication in the statute book.
