To whom it may concern,

I would like time to tell my story and struggles working in healthcare. I was working 60 hrs a week or more and still could not afford to pay my bills. I went to the admin of the facility who sat behind her desk and told me that in 1984 the nursing homes all got together and decided that they would not "cap" wages for cna's. This was 40 years ago. Cnas and nurses are the backbone of these facilities and without them the facilities would be unable to operate. I left healthcare and now make more money as a customer service rep. The system is broken it's been that way. Limiting nursing agencies that actually pay a living wage is only going to make things worse. People will just leave the field, because at this point hobby lobby pays $7.00 more an hour than caring for the elderly.

Thanks for your time,

Jillian Journey
